No Seizures Where There Is Nothing To Seize Is The Policy Of Saskatchewan

Economic Conditions In Saskatchewan Improve

Testimony to the gradually improving economic conditions in Saskatchewan was given practically unanimously by representatives of implement manufacturers, lumber land and mortgage insurance and banking interests as well as by the head of the Saskatchewan Agricultural Societies association at an economic conference held yesterday at the parliament buildings, Regina.

Following an all-day discession along these lines, Premier Dunning announced that several weeks ago the government had instructed the sheriffs in certain districts to make a survey to ascertain the cases in which it would be a waste of time and money to make a seizure which would only result in the piling up of costs. This had been done, he said, and instructions had been given to the sheriffs not to make seizures in such cases unless specifically instructed and their cases were guaranteed by the party forcing the seizure.

In one case where this had been done, the solicitor acting in the case had written to the sheriff advising him he would refuse to do his duty at his peril and that he would be sued for damages if they found there were any reliable assets. Premier Dunning stated that the government would stand behind the sheriffs in this matter although it might prove expensive.

Early Threshing Reports Vary

The early reports from the local threshers are not as encouraging as one would desire. Fields of six, seven and eight bushels per acre are reported. It is hoped that the later reports will be better.

* * *

Threshing reports continue to come in. We are informed that breaking on the D. Collette farm yielded 15 bushels to the acre whilst spring plowing on the same farm ran six bushels to the acre. From fall plowed land Delamont obtained a yield of ten bushels, as did Larouche from his several fields.

Wheat is coming in freely today, being hauled straight from the threshing rigs. By far the larger part is grading a very good number one.

Honey In Alberta

Between 35,000 and 50,000 lbs honey in his first year in the bee business in Southern Alberta is the record which George Reidel expects to set up this year from his 300 colonies of bees in six apiaries throughout the Coaldale irrigated district. Mr. Reidel claims that Southern Alberta is one of the finest bee districts in the world, and certainly the best in Canada.

There's no incentive to thrift that can beat twins.

Epidemic Takes Toll Of Three More Young Lives From Chauvin & Manitou

STOP PRESS NEWS: Ruby McCluskey, 13 year old daughter of Mr and Mrs Joe McCluskey, La Pearl, died yesterday from infantile paralysis, after twenty-four hours sickness. Klein Djuff, of Dina, is dangerously with typhoid.

Gloom has been again spread over the district by the news that Charles Gagnon, a bright sixteen year old youth was stricken with infantile-paralysis and died within two days. He was out in the fields harvesting on Wednesday, September 10th, and feeling tired he fell asleep on the ground. He spent a bad night and at four o'clock Thursday Dr Ternan was summoned. On Friday morning his condition had apparently improved, but in the afternoon new symptoms developed, and despite all efforts death occurred at 6.45 Friday evening.

Does death sometimes lurk in a kiss? Every indication points to the fact that it has in a recent episode in the Manitou Lake district. Two weeks ago we reported the death of little Shirley Drake. His dead body was kissed by Mrs. Christian a young woman related to the deceased. Very shortly after this kiss the young woman was stricken sick and died in a short time. A post mortem examination has been held.

BRITISH SCIENTISTS AT JASPER PARK

THE special Canadian National trains, carrying the members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science were halted at Jasper, Alta., long enough for the visiting scientists to see some of the beauties of Canada's largest national park. The visitors were entertained at Jasper Park Lodge and were also taken for

Vision as Applied to Railroading

Are you color-blind? Are you long-sighted? Slightly deaf? You may be, without knowing it, if you have never been tested.

These physical deficiencies, in some walks of life, are of little importance. But in railroading certain responsible positions require perfect vision, color-sense and hearing.

The examination of aspirants to positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, watchmen and others directly concerned with the safety of trains, and the periodical re-examination of successful candidates, in these vital matters is the business of the railroads. In the Canadian Pacific, which provides an outstanding example of the care with which they are conducted, there is a special department charged with this work. It is called the Time Service and Vision, Color-Sense and Hearing Department. There is a Chief Examiner for Eastern lines and one for Western lines, each with a separate office.

All applicants for the positions already referred to, which demand a high standard in vision, color-sense and hearing, are required to pass an applicant examination and, if successful, must pass a further examination at least every two years thereafter, and in some instances more frequently, according to the diminution of their vision or hearing. They are also re-examined after any accident in which they are either directly or indirectly involved and which may have been caused by defective sight, hearing or color-sense. In addition, following any serious injury or illness or severe inflammation of either the eyes or eyelids, they are again re-examined and, not content with this, the regulations of the Canadian Pacific require them to face the examiner whenever they are slated for promotion.

Caution and regard for the public safety could hardly go further than this!

The tests employed are exhaustive and are so arranged as to approximate as closely as possible to actual conditions likely to be met with in their work by those examined. Applicants for positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and others similarly employed are required to pass the near and far vision tests without glasses. If, at one of the periodical re-examinations, employees in these positions are found to be in need of glasses, they are allowed to wear them, provided they bring the vision up to the required standard. Applicants for other positions may wear glasses for near or far vision, depending on their work. All glasses must be approved by the company and every employee using them is obliged to carry a second pair for emergencies.

The vision test, which is held indoors, involves the reading of Snellens test types, including letters of varying sizes, at a distance of twenty feet or less, and the reading of an American Railway Association standard reading card for testing near vision.

Applicants and employees examined for hearing must have normal hearing in each ear. They are obliged to repeat correctly train orders given in a normal voice at a distance of twenty feet. How important this is will readily be recognized by those who recollect the difficulties of making out conversation through the noise of a locomotive with steam up or through the clamour of wind or rain. A mistake in a few all-important syllables under these conditions may easily be made unless one has perfect hearing.

Most interesting of the examinations is that for color-sense. The men are asked to identify colors displayed by a Williams lantern and to pass a Holmgren or Thompson color-selection test. The latter test is held in broad daylight. A large number of skeins of wool of varying colors, called confusion colors because they are specially selected with a view to confusing the color-blind, are placed before the examinee. The examiner tells him to pick out all the wools which have red, green or some other color in them or perhaps to match them for shades. The man obeys and in a moment reveals his weakness, if he has any.

In the Williams lantern test the applicant is taken into a dark room. At one end of this room, twenty feet away, is the apparatus, consisting of an electric lantern on the front of which is a revolving disc containing a number of segments of glass, each in a varying shade of red, green, yellow, purple or blue, as well as white, all colors employed by the railways in their signals. The examiner switches on the light and turns the disc, requiring the man to name the colors displayed as the segments pass before the lens. In turn, small red, green, yellow, purple, blue or white circles of light, in varying shades, singly or in combinations of two or three, become visible. "What are they?" asks the examiner. "White—blue and red—light green and dark green," says the applicant, and so on, naming the colors as he sees them.

These wool and lantern tests reveal to an astonishing extent the prevalence of color-blindness. Fully four per cent. of the applicants are color-blind without knowing it and will not believe it when the examiner gently but firmly points out the fact. As it is, of course, vital that all men whose positions involve or might involve the reading of signal and all applicants for those positions should have an accurate color-sense, no color-blind person has the slightest chance of passing.

The number of men, applicant and employees, examined on a system so enormous as the Canadian Pacific is very great. Approximately nine hundred appear before the examiners every month on the Eastern lines alone, and between 13,000 and 15,000 employees on the Eastern lines come up for re-examination every two years. The figures for Western lines are approximately the same.

It will readily be understood that the entire system would be disorganized if these men, many traveling long distances, had to report to the offices of the Chief Examiners for their tests. The Canadian Pacific therefore retains two special cars, one of the Western and one on the Eastern lines, which are specially fitted as travelling-test rooms and are continually on the move. It takes these cars two years to make the round of the stations within their jurisdiction, examining applicants and the employees of the company.

So, year in and year out, the Canadian Pacific continues these exhaustive tests which have as their object the maintenance of safety and efficiency.

The $100,000,000 credit extended by J. P. Morgan & Co., to the Bank of France six months ago has been renewed for another six months. The credit was originally extended to assist in the fight against the depreciation of the franc.

That the Russian trade treaty may cause general elections in England as a result of the strenuous opposition it is bound to meet in the House of Commons was the opinion expressed by G. G. Dawson, editor of the London Times in a recent interview at Quebec.

Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, Chicago boy murderers, are each sentenced to imprisonment for life for murder, and to ninety-nine years imprisonment for kidnapping.

In a declaration on the Anglo-Russian treaty Lloyd George says the treaty was a fake and folly which had been "hastily patched up" at the end of the recent session of parliament because Premier MacDonald had been held up "by the socialist gunmen of his own party."

Jewish refugees from Russia immigrating to Canada are now required to qualify as other immigrants, that is as agricultural workers who give assurance of remaining in rural districts of Canada.

A Tofield boy whilst playing with a dynamite cap, blew off some fingers and injured his knee. This was first reported as a shooting affray, but later the frightened lad confessed to the truth.

The French government went on the warpath against the high cost of living in a cabinet meeting and put the blame for one-sixth of the increase in food price this year upon speculators. Honest merchants were asked to aid the government in reducing the prices, and speculators were threatened with drastic action, through new legislation if necessary.

The Edmonton bye election will probably be held in the later part of October.

Alberta coal is losing its hold in the Manitoba markets owing to prolonged labor troubles.

A New York syndicate offers to take over the A. & G. W. railway and to develop the tar sands area.

France, in all probability, will be forced to import wheat this year.

The Association of Canadian Clubs, in session at St. John, N. G. last week, adopted Weir's version of "O, Canada."

The affairs of three more rural credit societies have been taken in hand by the Manitoba government.

On June 18th Winnipeg, Man., celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its incorporation. From a struggling frontier village of the '70s, Winnipeg has forged into the position of third largest city in the Dominion, with continental repute as a railroad centre. It is the Gateway of the West and 100,000,000 bushels of prairie grain pass through it to the head of the lakes, whence it goes to the markets of the world.

Twenty-five officers and 200 men of the Royal Navy, from the special service squadron headed by H.M.S. Hood, enjoyed a trip through the Rockies over the Canadian Pacific lines while their ships were anchored at Vancouver recently. The sailors, who made a point, in true naval style, of seeing and doing everything, were enthusiastic over the scenery at such show-places as Banff and Lake Louise, which they declared the most beautiful they had seen in all their world cruise.

Successful strawberry culture 306 miles north of the international boundary has been proven possible by R. A. Gordon, of Edmonton, Alta. One hundred plants brought from Ontario wintered well, blossomed heavily and produced a prolific crop of well-formed, fine-flavored fruit with rich color and flavor. Mr. Gordon has likewise had much success with cherries, wild plums and crab apples.

Steady progress has been made by the macaroni industry in Canada during the past decade. The Bureau of Statistics reports that, whereas the Dominion imported nearly 7,000,000 pounds in pre-war days, it imported only 1,000,000 pounds and exported 2,229,000 pounds in 1923. Nine factories, with a capitalization of $873,000, now operate in Canada, with an aggregate output approximating 11,500,000 pounds.

Whaling operations off the coast of British Columbia this season have been very successful. Four stations and six or seven whalers are working. Some of the vessels have secured 30 head so far this year. Whale oil is selling well in England, while whale meat, canned, is an established commodity in West Africa, the entire British Columbia whale meat pack of last year having been sold there.

Arrangements for the re-building of the old wing of the Chateau Lake Louise, the Canadian Pacific's charming hotel in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, are already under way. The contract has been awarded to Carter-Halls Aldinger, of Winnipeg, and Barrot and Blackader are the architects. The building will have a greater number of guest and public rooms than existed in the one which preceded it, as the hotel is now too small for the crowds which visit it. The work is to be completed in time for next season. It will be recalled that the old wing of the Chateau was destroyed by fire some months ago.

Although Alberta only became a province eighteen years ago, its population has increased fourfold, while the grain yield has increased twentyfold. The total agricultural products of Alberta in 1923 were worth $223,000,000.

The scheme for the settlement of British emigrants in Canada may assume a new aspect as a result of the presence in London, England, of the Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian Minister of Immigration. Canada favors the movement of entire families to Canada from Great Britain, rather than that of single men.

Among the biggest muscalunges caught this year was one landed at the Canadian Pacific Railway's French River (Ont.) Bungalow Camp, by Samuel Franklin, Southern Sales Manager of Claflins, Inc., New York City. Mr. Franklin had a light tackle and had never hooked a lunge before. He had a hard fight to secure the fish, which tipped the scale at 38½ pounds.

Out of every dollar the Company earns, the sum of 81 cents is spent by the Canadian Pacific Railway in the home markets of Canada for wages, materials, supplies, taxes and insurance, figures recently issued show. In 1923 the total earnings of this great corporation were $195,837,939, and every community in Canada directly benefited by the expenditure of 81 per cent. of this huge amount in the home market.

The 1924 cut of the East Kootenay (B.C.) forestry district gives promise of running to a grand total of 150,000,000 feet. There is a particularly brisk business in poles of longer lengths and in railway ties, and a cut of some 1,000,000 sawn ties and the usual quantity of the hewn variety is looked for. Sixteen sawmills are now in operation and indications are that there will probably be thirty going before the season closes.

Canada now takes third place, and second place among British possessions, of the gold-producing areas of the world. The total gold production of the world for 1922—the latest year for which returns are available—was 15,440,000 fine ounces, of which the Transvaal produced 7,020,110, or 45.5 per cent. The United States came second, with 2,363,075 ounces, or 15.3 per cent., and Canada followed, with 1,263,364 ounces, or 8.2 per cent.

June 18th was the anniversary of the running of the first Imperial Limited, the Canadian Pacific Railway's famous transcontinental. This was not the Company's first transcontinental, as trains began regular service between Montreal and Vancouver as far back as 1886, but for several years it was the crack Canadian Pacific express. To-day the premier place is held by the Trans-Canada Limited, the fastest long-distance express in the world, which makes the run in 90 hours, or 10 hours less than the time of the original Imperial Limited.

Shipments of grain from Vancouver for the 1923-24 season have now passed the 41,000,000 bushel mark. Officials estimate that the 50,000,000 bushel mark set for the season will be surpassed in the near future.

Reports from England state that it has been universally conceded that Canada's pavilion was in the best condition when the King opened the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley on April 23rd. "It was the Canadian building," the reports said, "spick and span and complete to the last nail that led all others in the race to the finish in time for to-day's official opening."

Over 3,000 settlers left Liverpool for Canada on April 24th. Thirteen hundred of these sailed on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm," including a party of 200 skilled workers from Manchester, 38 belonging to engineering trades, 40 to building trades and 42 farm hands. Eighty skilled workers from Leeds and a party of engineers from Barrow-in-Furness were also on board.

A total of 40,000,000 salmon trout eggs has been collected during the last season by the Department of Marine and Fisheries in Lake Huron, Georgian Bay and Lake Superior. The total number obtained compares favorably with the average collections of recent years and is sufficient to fill all the hatcheries on the Great Lakes engaged in the propagation of salmon trout.

IS THE NEWSPAPER A LIAR?

If the average newspaperman is a liar he generally lies to protect his community.

If a boy goes into the world and gets into trouble, the home newspaper says he was a good boy until he left home and became influenced by bad company,

If the town's tightwad who hugged his pennies to his bosom in life dies, the newspaper throws a mantle over him and says he hated wastefulness and that his hate for useless spending made him over-careful of his investments and his charities.

If the town gossip dies, the editor carefully avoids referring to her outstanding weakness, tells how she visited the sick and afflicted, and winds up by saying she was a good neighbor

If the ball team goes away from home and has the daylights whipped out of them, the home editor tells the unsuspecting world that the team was made up of second string players.

The editor is not a liar from choice. The truth struggles in his manly breast the same as it does in that of the village preacher, but the pride of his community makes him a trembling rabbit—and he lies to save the local pride of the town.—The Trail (BC.) News.

IT'S YOUR CHUM

The home paper is your chum, your pal, and your intimate friend; the city daily is your casual acquaintance; the magazine is your occasional visitor. And when it comes to advice, we trust a chum and intimate friend first. Don't you?

You may not know it, but the small paper not only delivers friendly and intimate home-influence than a paper of larger circulation, but it is trusted far more widely than the city daily produced by men so far away that they can not possibly be in touch with your community.

There is advice to remember when you want to sell something—offer it to those who read the home-town paper. They have long ago learned that they can believe what they see in its columns. It is not so full of advertising, either, that your message will be buried, as often happens to advertisers in the dailies. If you have not learned the truth about advertising in your home town paper, then you have not learned all you ought to know about successful merchandising

A PLAIN TALK

So long as we hold a low opinion of our capabilities, we shut out of our lives all possibility of rising to positions of trust and responsibility.

"The vision that you glorify in your mind, the ideal that you enthrone in your heart—this you will build your life by, this you will become."

So long as we think that we are helpless victims of heredity, of circumstances and environment, we can never express anything but weakness, inferiority, —at best, mediocrity.

The first step to uncovering possibilities is to realize that the humblest child has inherited divine possibilities that will enable him to realize his loftiest ambition. Those who may achieve wonders in every field that the world has yet seen may today be working in some humble capacity, be dreaming of the bright future they will some day realize.

"There is not going to be an election this fall," said Premier King, addressing North York electors at Markham. As to international relations, he said: "We are partners with the Mother Country and with our sister Dominions. There is no such thing as a colonial status, or an inferior position. We are entitled to manage our own affairs in regard to foreign relations, just as in the case of domestic relations."

Green vegetables, which supply our bodies with iron, are also the only certain source of iodine.

"I could almost love you if you were a cowboy, but you're only a measly sheep herder." Harsh words from a beautiful girl. But then she was the owner of a cattle ranch. See Jack Hoxie in "The man from Wyoming." at the I.O.O.F. hall Chauvin Monday September 22nd and Edgerton Tuesday, September 23rd.

Editorial Comment

There is still an urgent need for vigilance in the matter of public health in our midst. In this municipality and also in those adjoining infectious diseases are lurking and threatening ever to break out with fresh virulence.

Whilst the majority of folks are taking every precaution and guiding their conduct by the letter and spirit of the laws on this subject, there are still too many who seem, whether through ignorance or sheer careless indifference we know not, who utterly disregard ordinary caution and the law on these matters. It is high time that some of these persons be prosecuted and an example set.

During the past week we learn that there is a fifty per cent failure to pass the departmental examinations in Alberta this year. There can be no more vivid proof of the necessity of parents giving greater co-operation with the school teachers by sending their children to school regularly, fresh and fit for their school work; and also by parental discipline seeing that the child applies himself to his or her school tasks.

With the few years that can be given to school work, and with too often but a short period each year, it is imperative that not a single hour of schooling be needlessly wasted.

Efforts are to be made, we are informed, by the coal miners' organization to extend the labor troubles into the Edmonton coal field. Maybe the miners and laborers could easily spend more money each week, but the fact remains that fully a hundred men could be recruited from this district alone to whom miners' pay for the winter months would be most highly attractive.

Taxes, like death, are unavoidable. But the greater economy, alike for the individual and the public authorities are effected by a prompt payment of same. It also reduces interest and other costs by the authorities and ultimately tends to reduce the total taxation levied. Pay up and get your receipt.

No Seizures Where Nothing To Seize

the dbet adjustment bureau in the immediate future was also announced by Premier Dunning after he had given the government's answer to the scheme submitted by the farmers' organizations with regard to debt adjustment. The proposals were rejected as constitutionally impossible. Premier Dunning stated a representative of the debt adjustment bureau will be established in the sheriff's office in each of ths twnty-three judicial districts of the province. In some cases the representative will be the sheriff himself and in others a suecial representative of the bu-reau installed in the sheriff's of-fice. There will thus be available for any farmer in difficulties an unpaid agent ready to help him adjust his financial affairs as smoothly and expiditiously as possible. Mr. Dunning declared in in-structing sheriffs not to make seizure in cases where they knew thert was nothing to seize tht government had gone about as far as it was possible. "If they placed in the hands of the sher-iffs discretionary powers as to whether they should make seiz-ures when there was something to seize, all credit would vanish. Uner the law the sheriff must execute an order placed in his possession if there is anything to execute at all," added Mr. Dun-ning. "but he has the right to ask for a guarantee of costs from the party instructing him to make the seizure.

HER LOVES

When Mary was but seventeen,
A sweet and pretty miss,
And treasured fondest memory
Of that first lover's kiss.
For hours she'd sit and idly dream
Of all the future bliss,
Vowing that none could ever rob
Her of her handsome, dashing Bob.

Time passed on, as time e'er must
But still she'd somtimes plan;
But now 'twas of the future, when
Her babe became a man.
Seeing him as his father was—
As only mothers can,
And in her breast there came a sob:

He was her son, her little Bob,
More years have swiftly passed away,
Now Mary's hair is white;
But still she's happy as of yore,
For life is pure delight,
And just a week ago to-day
Contentment reached its height.
She murmured: "Oh, that barber
Has made a splendid job!"
As she gazed into the mirror
At her precious dinky "bob."

At a meeting in a certain church a deacon was asked to offer prayer. He often lent money but was prone to exact a high rate of interest.

Becoming stirred by his religious ferour, he lifted up his voice to a high tone and roared: "Oh, give us greater interest in heaven."

A young fellow outside heard his supplication and sang out through the open window:
"Hold on there, deacon: Pou're getting twelve per cent down here. Don't shout for any more up there!"

"What made you give up business in America and come to London?"

"I heard there were some big openings here!"

"Have you fallen into any thing good yet?"

"Yes; the first opening I fell in was one in the road—six feet deep.

Liquor Profits

A request that profits made out of government sale of liquor be distributed among municipalities of the province was referred to the Saskatchewan Government when the executive of the Union of Urban Municipalities waited upon the cabinet with the resolutions passed at the 1924 convention.

Premier Dunning repeated what he had told the Moderation League deputation, saying that he did not know of any community which drank itself rich or drank itself into low taxation. He assured the delegation the question of revenue would not be the prime consideration when the government came to decide upon its policy in reference to the liquor legislation. "That is all I can say to you at this stage," he added.

DUSTY GLASS

I took a tall glass vase from the highest shelf in my storage closet, today—the shelf upon which I keep those things that I do not often use. It is an impractical vase, a clumsy, tippy sort of vase, and I only bring it out upon those rare and very pleasant occasions when I have so many flowers in my apartment that my regular vases and bowls cannot accommodate them. Yesterday we spent a long time in the country did the Nicest man and I, and we came home with great masses of blossoms in our arms. And because there were so many, I was forced to make the house—so that they could be kept fresh and beautiful until I found time to share them with other folks who hadn't been to the country.

I took the tall glass vase from the highest shelf. And because I was in a great hurry, I didn't pay much attention to it—only held it under the cold water faucet. I wanted to give the flowers a drink of water—and as quickly as possible. And so I was very much surprised and more than a little dismayed when I saw that the vase was apparently filling with water of a cloudy mud color. I poured it out and started to refill the vase. And the same thing happened, all over again. And then—just as I was about to pour out the water for the second time—I saw, to my great chagrin, that the water was not at fault. The vase itself, standing on the highest shelf of my storeroom had not been touched for several long and dusty weeks. And, through that film of dirt even the clearest water in the world would appear cloudy, and unpleasant.

Of course I washed the vase, hurriedly and very thoroughly. I washed it while the Nicest man laughed—but in a kind way—at my discomfort. And as soon as the vase was clean again the water running into it from the cold water faucet appeared clean too.

Have you ever seen a girl—a girl with pretty features and a sweet manner and a charming personality—who was always sloppy as to dress and personal habits? Have you ever wished that such a girl would realize the necessities of neatness? I have known just such a girl. And though I have realized her splendid qualities her real attractiveness. And though I have been able to think of her as good-looking—which she might well have been.

Her hair, for instance, is lovely. And yet it is always coiled carelessly, is always hanging over one ear, and escaping in untidy little wisps at the back of her neck. She has pretty hands but her finger nails are hardly ever properly filed. Her feet are small, but she allows the heels of her shoes to run over. So that all in all, the general impression of her is not a happy one.

"If I had that girl's possibilities", I once heard a plain woman remark. "I would be a real beauty. But she—she is hardly more than commonplace."

The girl, herself was like the clear water. But her clothing was a dusty glass, and through it her prettiness was vague and clouded and uninteresting.

I have read books, too, that had back of them an idea as refreshing as a trickle of a mountain spring that rises sweetly out of a green forest place. Books that contained a thought to make life easier to make the world a better place to live in. I have read such books, and have laid them down feeling in my heart because they are written so carelessly, and with such a wealth of meaningless words and phrases that their real worth was seen "as through a glass, darkly". A dusty glass.

And homes. Ever so many of them—that might be glad and joyous places of abode—are spoiled because of some friction, or anger, or over-quick temper. A sharp word, spoken before there was time for careful thought, an unkind impulse given full sway, a seed of jealousy or a flake of unjust suspicion, have made love fly out of the window. And when love goes, contentment goes, too. And when love and contentment are not a part of the home, then home is no longer clear and sparkling like good wholesome water. It is dull and lifeless, like the water that has been poured into a dirty glass vase.

Of course the really important thing is to see that the water is clear—whether it's water from the cold water faucet or the water of life that we need so keenly. But the next most important thing is to see that the glass vessel containing that water is freshly dusted, always, and clean. For water, both the water of life and the kind that we give to thirsty flowers is a natural reflector that takes its color from those objects that are nearest to it.

Most of you, friends of mine, have had the real pleasure of looking into the depths of a brook that flowed between green meadows, beneath the blue of a summer sky. The water of the brook gave back faithfully the shades of blue and green—didn't it? wisest man?"

And that is my moral.

On a summer day, when thunder showers had prevailed in the forenoon, a wedding party came in from a distance.

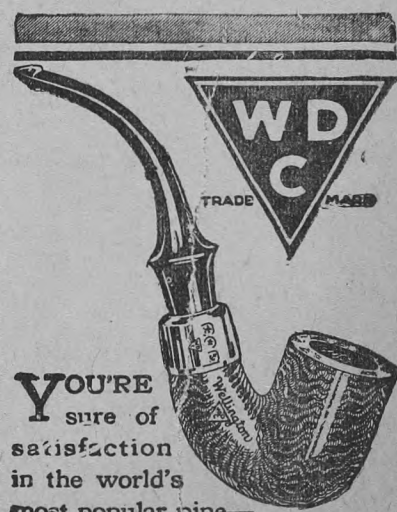

When the register was being signed, the preacher asked the groom:—

"Have you had any hail this morning?"

The man blushed and hesitated, but at length replied:—

"Well, sir, we just did have a glass apiece afore we started."

ENGLAND WILL SUPPORT CANADIAN ENTERPRISES

Before leaving England recently after a short visit to that country, E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway said "I cannot help but regard Canada as the greatest actual potential asset in the Empire, and when exchange is at parity I feel quite confident that England will support Canadian enterprises and Canadian development will be very extensive." The photograph reproduced above shows Sir Thomas Fisher, general manager, Canadian Pacific Steamships, (left); Sir George McLaren Brown, European General Manager of the Canadian Pacific, Mr. Beatty and Captain J. Turnbull, commander of the Montclair.

Indian Treasure Hidden at Bon Echo

Long before Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence to discover Hochelaga, a now-forgotten race of people were making pilgrimages to the Big Rock towering above the waters of Lake Mazinawe in Eastern Ontario to observe religious ceremonies, to worship before this great natural altar and to propitiate the gods who dwelt within its granite mass. In the backwoods now, five hundred years ago the Big Rock of Bon Echo was in the center of the greatest white pine forest the world has ever known and on a main highway between the north and Lake Ontario. There were no backwoods in those days, and the streams were the travel routes for the pagan people who followed the seasonal migrations of the animals with which the forests teemed.

To them the Big Rock at Bon Echo must have been a thing of mystery, as it remains today both to archeologists and geologists. None can reconcile the sheer untouched face with the glacial markings along its top, and in the same way the paintings along the face are an unsolved riddle. "Who put them there?" and "what do they mean?" are unanswered questions. Along the face of the Big Rock a few feet above the waterline are the hieroglyphic records of an unknown people. Painted in a virtually imperishable paint, whose composition is unknown, and which has defied the weathering effects of wind and water, these records baffle the archeologists of the continent.

Whether they have a warlike or religious significance is not known, although some people hold that they record a great victory of the Iroquois over the Hurons and Algonquins and have been written in some involved and mystic code.

A more conservative interpretation claims that the paintings of the Big Rock are trail marks, records of the hunt, signboards for other travellers. The natives of the backcountry claim that they hold the secret to the treasure cave located in the Rock, and that the solution of their riddle would open the entranceway to the long lost silver of the Indians.

From Brockville to Trenton, on the shores of Lake Ontario, the legend of Meyer's Cave has long persisted. The hint of such a cave first came when the Indians from the country to the north brought in bars of native silver to exchange for food and firearms. For years they refused to discuss the source of their wealth with anyone, but in time, a trader by the name of John Meyers, who had been brought up in association with Indians, was able to ingratiate himself into the confidence of two members of the tribe and in exchange for liberal quantities of fire-water, they agreed to conduct him north.

Late in the fall they set out, made their way up the Moira and Skootamatta Rivers, portaged from Loumshtigouche Lake into Lake Mazinawe and came to the Big Rock. Conflicting stories tell of Meyers actual find.

One tells of a fissure between two huge masses of rock, a long entranceway through which the trader crawled, and of a cavern at its end. When the fat pine torches carried by his drunken guides illumined the interior Meyers found himself inside an irregular cube fifty feet in size and along whose sides were piled rough cast bars of native silver, as one piled cordwood.

The trader took what quantities of the metal he could place in his knapsack and in his pockets, and departed, making as accurate a mental record of the location of the entranceway as he could. His companions would not allow him to blaze a tree, or to place a cairn, for by this time they were becoming frightened over their betrayal of the secret. The small party set out for home but crossing the lake at the headwaters of the Skoot River, their canoe was swamped by a heavy storm, and the Indians abandoned Meyers who had made his way to shore with difficulty. In order to save himself from drowning he was forced to throw away all but a small quantity of silver carried in the pockets of his coat. Without food, his firearms gone, ill, wet and hungry he reached Belleville after ten days hardship. As a result of the exposure he took pneumonia and died in the course of few months.

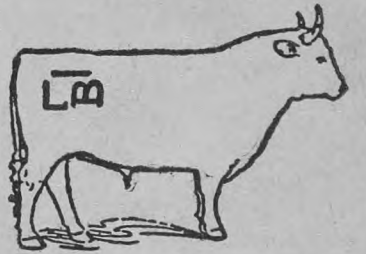

It is an improbable story but one thing is certain. In the Meyers family there are spoons made from the silver he brought down with him. He left a map, drawn from memory, and in time this fell into the hands of a lawyer, George Merrill, who went north and relocated the cave, in company with another man. Loth to divulge the discovery, he did nothing for some years and when he did return the fires had swept through the backcountry and had altered its typography to such an extent that he was never able to locate it again.

Several comfortable fortunes has been spent trying to locate the cave. One man lived for fourteen years on top of the Big Rock going over every square inch of it, time and time and again, certain to the day of his death, that his perseverance would be rewarded. Today in a sheltered hollow there are a few rotting logs at right angles to mark his home.

Another expedition spent thousands of dollars scraping the earth off the central portion of the rock, in a vain search for the cave. Once or twice every summer a group of old prospectors will appear at Bon Echo Inn, and armed with pickaxes and hammers, will mysteriously disappear up the iron staircase mounting the Big Rock, certain that at last they are going to find the lost millions. A day or two later they creep down the staircase, climb silently aboard the Canadian Pacific train, and go home as they have come, without the treasure.

And over all the Big Rock watches as it has watched a millions years, serene and indissoluble.
